Hixburg

Hixburg, Jan. 4.- A family reunion dinner was served at the home of Mrs. R. H. Oliver at Prospect on Sunday, Dec. 27.

All of Mrs. Oliver's seven children, five in-laws, and thirteen grandchildren were present. Turkey, Virginia ham and other Southern edibles loaded the dining table. Cafeteria style was the only way it could be served.

The affair was in honor of her son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Thompson and their three children.

The Rev. Thompson is pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church in Mobile, Alabama. Since he has been their minister, the congregation has built a new church.

On December 28, Mrs. George Glass and Kathy, of Dover, Delaware were expected to arrive at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fore, for a visit.

Mrs. Harriett Charlton, of Washington, D. C., spent the Christmas holidays with the Fores. She went from there to visit Mrs. Lizzie Young.

Christmas Day, Mrs. Frank Irving celebrated by slipping on the ice and breaking a bone in her wrist. It was set at Southside Community Hospital in Farmville. It is reported to be healing nicely.

Sunday, Dec. 27, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Covington left at six A. M. to motor to Pompano Beach, Florida, where they will be the guests of her sister, Mrs. Virginia Lupin.

Crute Carson and family, of Richmond arrived at the home of his brother, Jim Carson, on Friday, December 25. They were week - end guests.

On Saturday, Uriel Carson, of Farmville, and Nelson Hix, of Prospect joined Crote for a day of hunting.

Linda Carson, Crote's daughter, skipped the sixth grade and is now making all A's in Grade 7 in the Chandler Junior High School in Richmond.

Dr. Twyman Williams preached a thought provoking sermon on "Witnessing for Christ" on Sunday morning at Walker's Presbyterian Church at Hixburg.

There has been a great improvement in the church music since Walter Carson has taken over as choir director, and his wife, Mrs. Nancy Carson, is pianist.

Mrs. Edith Hix and Frances, of Richmond visited the three Hix families on New Year's Day. They were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson Hix.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fitzwater and sons, of Raleigh, N. C., were Christmas Eve guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson Hix.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Adams, of Richmond were week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Goin.

A/2C James Hunter Goin, who is stationed in Sacramento, California writes that he likes the state very much.

Strong Churches

Lesson for January 10, 1960

A TRAVELING medicine man is not a registered pharmacist. They both make a living out of selling medicines; but there the resemblance ends. The medicine man is interested in the money and nothing else. The pharmacist is a member of the community and has a personal stake in the community's health. The medicine man has never had one to examine him; the pharmacist has to pass a rigid examination to be licensed. The medicine man seldom knows much about his stuff; the pharmacist spent years studying it.

Dr. Foreman

Likewise, the fly-by-night preacher is not, as a rule, a churchman. They both are religious professionals, that is to say they "live by the Gospel" as Paul put it. But the fly-by-nighter can be identified by the fact that he is interested chiefly in the money; the churchman is interested in the people of the church. The churchman is a member of the Christian community, he lives there, he feels responsible. The fly-by-nighter is irresponsible; the churchman has been stiffly examined, and has spent years learning his job.

Strong Churches Make Strong Christians

Saint Paul was one of the most successful evangelists who ever lived. But he never thought his duty was done when he had simply preached somewhere. Saint Paul was a traveling preacher, but no fly-by-nighter. He had a sense of responsibility for the Christians whom he had converted. He knew that just getting people converted and then doing no more about them is like a doctor who would specialize in delivering babies but would not care what they ate, drank or wore after that. A neglected baby is a sickly baby, and a neglected Christian is a sickly Christian. The best place for babies is in a good home; and the best place for growing Christians is with other growing Christians, namely in a church. Strong churches make strong Christians.

What Makes A Church Strong?

Paul knew all this, indeed we may say that this method of work demonstrated that this is true. He knew if he left weak churches behind him the Christians would also be weak.

The recipe for a strong church has not changed since Paul's time. Three foundation-stones for a strong church are mentioned in Acts 14:21-23. First of these is preaching. Paul had preached in these churches before; they had heard the gospel. But they needed further help.

Can Christians be strengthened by talk? Certainly if the talk is right. If the preaching in a church is faithful to the Word of God, and if the preacher is trained to preach, instead of being a fuzzy-minded Christian who likes to talk, the listeners in that church Sunday after Sunday are being fed, to the health of mind and spirit.

Organization and Worship

Another foundation for a strong church is organized leadership. A church is not a mere collection of Christians, a religious mass-meeting. It is, or should be, a power in its community. Its responsibilities to its members and through its members are many. To do what needs to be done, leaders are needed who have some authority, some capacity for planning, some gifts of persuasion, some far vision.

Paul preached and organized, but he also prayed. These churches were to be communities of prayer. A church where all the praying is done by a few people, a church where people go only to be talked to, or to meet their friends, is not the strong kind of church that will flourish strong Christians. The most important Person we can meet in church is not some local "Mr. Big." It is God; and if we do not meet him we have missed the meaning of worship. For the real source of a church's strength is not the preacher and not the official board, whatever they may be called or however good they are. Everybody knows that it is God; but why do some churches grow weak by forgetting that God is the Center?
